Thanksgiving Day

Dining Room Furniture.

As in every preceding year, we have prepared at this time an extensive showing of Dining Room Furniture for the fitting of the "Family Gathering Room" for this important feast and home day.

This year, keeping pace with our continued growth, the selections are larger and more varied, more attractive in design, and wherever possible we have improved construction and increased efficiency.

However, with all these plans for betterment in mind, we never lost sight of the economic side, and every one who has need for furniture and appreciates the wisdom of securing the highest grade will realize that we have provided values, quality considered, that cannot be surpassed wherever they may go.

WESTERN HIGH GIRLS HIKE FOR HEALTH IN WOODS

Under Astute Chaperonage Fair Dozen Do Stunts in Athletics that Would Arouse Masculine Envy.

Bright eyes sparkling, white teeth shining round cheeks blushing, glossy hair blowing, twelve pretty damsels tripped merrily from Western High School yesterday afternoon, and in high glee and bubbling spirits gained fame for themselves by partaking of the pleasures of the first cross-country walk for girls in the history of Washington high schools.

Over hill and dale, through woodland and marshland, climbing fences, jumping brooks, and plunging through brush and briars with girlish abandon, the even dozen of health-loving girls covered miles of open country in the brisk, biting wintry air at a gait that might arouse envy in trained cross-country hikers.

Far from the busy city, away from traveled roads, and screened from curious eyes, the fair pedestrians came to a secluded clearing in the heart of a deep wood and indulged in a programme of outdoor athletics which would make the masculine football and baseball heroes of the high schools sit up and take notice.

But, as the girls well knew, the boys were far away, shouting themselves hoarse at the Technial and Business football game; so, appreciating the rare opportunity, the girls tossed care to the winds and broad-jumped, high-jumped, hurdled, and ran until their hearts were pumping as never before.

Miss Ellen Thomas, director of physical culture at Western High School, who chaperoned the daring dozen, kept watchful eyes on the feminine athletes, and at the first sign of fatigue ordered a halt.

"Go as far as you like, girls," said Miss Thomas, casting an eye about the landscape, "but don't overdo."

For a girl to overdo, as all high school health directors know, is a serious offense, and indignant mamas and indulgent papas are apt to raise protest. But none of the twelve overdid, and after the whirlwind "hike" and the impromptu field meet they arrived safe and sound at the school, a bit weary, disheveled, and mud-bespattered.

Elated at the success of their plan to "slip one over on the boys," the girls went to their homes, after pleading with Miss Thomas "to have another walk soon." The physical culture director assured them there would be another next Thursday a week, in fact, and the girls said she was "just too dear."

Their names? Ask Miss Thomas.
